EARLY RISERS.

They Are Often Neither Healthy, Wealthy Nor Wise.

The lazy young persons who enjoy the extra snooze in the morning hours that all too frequently they have great difficulty in securing will probably rise up and call us blessed when we announce that their preference shows a rare discretion backed up by some sound professional wisdom. Getting up early in the morning is to be commended as a necessity rather than a benefit. Physicians and scientists agree that sleep in the morning is healthful and restorative, and that children and nervous or delicate persons should never be awakened until sleep leaves them of its own accord. This is all right and as it should be, but the necessity exists for early rising, and, therefore, must be met. Unpleasant as it is, there is no alternative for the great masses of the people. If one would prosper in business or any occupation whatever, it is necessary to be on hand betimes in the morning. Why not, then, simply treat it as an imperative duty and stop fussing over it as making people healthy, wealthy and wise? There are constitutions and temperaments that are never at their best when deprived of a morning sleep. Robust and energetic people are found stirring up whole families with early rising ideas. They experience no inconvenience and take it as a matter of course that no one else should.

Early rising is well enough provided one can rest at some other portion of the day, but the hours of darkness were made for sleep, and as time for the most part is pretty evenly divided into day and night it shows that nature knew quite well what she was about when she arranged things. People have lived, flourished and grown healthy, wealthy and wise who got up at noon and went to bed just before daylight, but this is by no means natural, nor is it approved by those who have made the subject of life and health a profound study.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Photography and Ducks.

One of the most remarkable accusations brought against the new photography is that of an American Field writer, who says: "I think photography has done a great deal to decrease the supply of ducks, which," he very properly adds, "will be news, no doubt," to many of his readers. Sportsmen have been saying that nothing but general adoption of cameras instead of firearms will save the game, and now to run up against such a statement as that is, to say the least, astonishing.

It appears that for the purpose of perfecting the picture album must be used, and this can be procured only from eggs. Chicken eggs are too valuable as food; therefore the Holaria islands of Scotland, Lofododen of Norway, Labrador, Greenland, South America, and in fact every conceivable breeding ground of wild birds is robbed of eggs by natives or men from extensive sailing expeditions. This is especially hard on the ducks of various kinds, particularly in Labrador, where they breed in thousands of nests to the square mile, while the scavenger birds of the sea, the various gulls and terns, suffer from these depredations. The birds cannot stand this drain long, and the question arises, What will happen when all the eggs are gone?

Asphalt.

Another kind of asphalt beton has been introduced in Austria under government direction, a principal recommendation being the quickness of hardening which characterizes it. It is described as an exactly brown powder having a slight odor of tar, and consists mainly of asphalt and iron slag, analysis showing 30.5 per cent of sulphur, 8.21 of tar, 51.02 of iron slag and 0.43 water, the first slag containing 45.01 per cent of silica, 23.43 of ferrous oxide, 30.9 of alumina and 4.16 of lime. The hardness is attributed chiefly to the formation of an iron sulphide, the tar acting as a reducing agent. The silica, clay and lime, though possibly combining at a slow rate, are regarded simply as impurities.

Illustrated.

She was a well dressed young woman, who looked haughtily upon her fellow beings in the crowded cable car and seemed to marvel at the class who would habitually patronize that plebeian mode of conveyance. Those who noticed her scornfully inquiring air resented it, but not until the transfer station was reached did they have their revenge. The well dressed young woman had taken her transfer slip and examined it into her card case absently. When she boarded the second car and the conductor demanded her ticket, she was for a moment at a loss to remember what she had done with it. Then remembering, she drew it forth, handed it to the waiting collector of fares and looked scornfully about her. He gave a look at the slip she had offered him and returned it, remarking loudly: "Paw tickets don't go on this line." The haughty young woman had lost something of her Vere de Vere air by the time she had made the correction in her fare, and the plebeians who habitually patronize the cable roads were smiling happily at her.—New York Journal.

ERIE MEDICAL CO., Buffalo, N. Y.

Foul breath is a discourager of affection. There are more reasons than one for this. Foul breath is always an indication of poor health—bad digestion. To bad digestion is traceable almost all human ills. It is the starting point of many very serious maladies. Upon the healthy action of the digestive organs, the blood depends for its richness and purity. If digestion stops, poisonous matter accumulates and is forced into the blood—there is no place else for it to go. Before this, the fermented, putrid matter has indicated its presence by making the breath foul, the complexion sallow and muddy, the eyes dull and the head heavy. By and by, the germ infected poisonous matter in the blood causes weakness or inflammation in some part of the body. Then comes rheumatism, scrofula, consumption, liver complaint, kidney trouble and a half a hundred other ills.

The bad breath is a danger signal. Look out for it! If you have it, or any other symptom of indigestion, take a bottle or two of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It will straighten out the trouble, make your blood pure and healthy and full of nutriment for the tissues. It is a strong statement, but a true one that the "Golden Medical Discovery" will cure 98 per cent of all cases of consumption if it is taken in the early stages. It will relieve even the most obstinate cases of long standing.

Send twenty-one cents in one-cent stamps to cover postage and wrapping only and you will receive from the World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y., a large book of two pages profusely illustrated, telling all about the "Golden Medical Discovery" and containing portraits, testimonials and addresses of hundreds of those cured by it. It is a complete Family Doctor Book.

A MATE FOR MCKINLEY.

An effort is being made by the party bosses to get Mr. Reed to accept second place on a ticket with McKinley. The Ozar, who is just now in an ugly mood and permits no one except his most intimate friends to go near him, will not listen to overtures of that character. Senator Lodge, who seems to be authorized to speak for Mr. Reed, says any attempt to nominate Mr. Reed for Vice-President will be repudiated with a positive declaration that he will decline even if the nomination is unanimous.

It has been suggested that in view of the fact that the Republican Convention will declare against silver and that there is no difference whatever between the Administration and the Republicans, that Secretary Carlisle be placed on the ticket with Mr. McKinley. This would make the bond of union between the gold Republicans and gold Democrats stronger than it now is, if that is possible. It would also relieve both parties from the accusation that while publicly pretending to differ and maintain distinct party organizations, they are secretly playing into each other's hands and resorting to all the methods that can be devised by the machine politicians to defeat the free coinage men.

It would be much more manly for the gold men to throw off their Republican and Democratic disguises and work together openly as they are deceiving only themselves. The nomination of Major McKinley for President and Secretary Carlisle for Vice-President would effectually accomplish that purpose. It would be a deserved recognition of the great service rendered the Republicans by the Secretary in the recent campaign in Kentucky. Though the Major and the Secretary live in adjoining States the Ohio rolls between them and it is the dividing line between the North and South. As James G. Blaine said, there is not another campaign in the bloody shirt and the nomination of a Southern man for second place on the ticket would show that the prejudices engendered by the war are eliminated from politics and that even the fiery Foraker is willing to cross the bloody chasm to save the gold standard.

It is much more respectable for the gold men of the two old parties to nominate McKinley and Carlisle at St. Louis and celebrate their union with a grand hurrah than to undertake the now seemingly futile task of capturing the Chicago Convention and failing to do so nominate a gold ticket with Carlisle at its head. That might cause the loss of a few votes in close States to the Republican candidate, for possibly all the gold Democrats under such circumstances might not vote the Republican ticket, but with Carlisle as running mate for McKinley there would be a complete unification of the gold vote North and South, East and West.

PROHIBITIONISTS AND SILVER.

The Prohibition National Convention in session at Pittsburg split on the financial question. There were two factions, the broad gauge or silver men, and the narrow gauge or gold men. Chairman Funk announced that the two factions could not agree on a platform and two reports would be presented. The broad gauge men, who were in a minority, declared that all money should be issued by the Government without the intervention of any banking association; that it should be a full legal tender for all debts, public and private, and should be of sufficient volume to meet the demands of the legitimate business interests of the country, and demanded the free coinage of silver and gold at the ratio of 16 to 1 without consulting any other nation. This plank was defeated by a vote of 427 to 387 and the broad gauge men seceded and organized another convention. The Prohibitionists are believed to be the most deliberate people in the land. Intoxicating liquors, which are supposed to influence other political conventions and incite delegates to hasty action, did not influence the Pittsburg Convention. Yet they set an example which will doubtless be followed by the silver men in the Republican convention, and by the gold men in the Democratic convention.

The financial question this year overshadows all others, and silver men of all parties are acting on the principle that he who does not declare for free coinage is against it.

MEMORIAL DAY.

This, May 30th, is a day set apart for decorating the graves of soldiers and sailors who fell in the war for the Union. The custom originated in the South and the day on which it was observed became known as "Memorial Day." The North readily adopted the custom and May 30th, by common consent, became known as Decoration Day. The Grand Army of the Republic, under whose auspices the graves of fallen soldiers were decorated, adopted the Southern designation and the day is now generally known North and South as Memorial Day, though in the statutes of several States it is referred to as Decoration Day.

In Nevada Memorial Day is a legal holiday. The beautiful custom of strewing flowers not only on the graves of those who fell fighting for their country, but also on the graves of loved ones of every age and sex, regardless of their pursuits in life, is observed throughout the country. The custom has been popularized and the day will be observed long after the last veteran of the war has responded at roll call on the other side of the dark river which separates time from eternity.

To-day will be observed by appropriate civic and military ceremonies in Reno. Veterans of the Mexican war and the war for the Union, the National Guard and University cadets, and civic societies and citizens will march in procession to the cemetery and strew flowers on the graves of soldiers and citizens.

WINNEMUCCA NOTES.

Particulars of the Shooting of Brakeman Knowles.

WINNEMUCCA, Nev., May 29, 1896. EDITOR JOURNAL.—It seems to be the misfortune of your correspondent when ever he sets out for a long journey to report something in the line of a serious accident. There was the death of Chas. Nolan of Hawthorne, a brakeman of the C. & O. road, near Wabuska, Lyon county. Next the untimely taking off of Vincent LaForge, another brakeman, of the Southern Pacific at White Plains, Churchill county. I happened to be on both these trains when the recorded fatalities occurred, only a few weeks apart nearly a year ago. Then followed the Indian tragedy on the Pyramid Reservation on the 20th instant.

Now comes the Golconda shooting and wounding of still another brakeman on the C. P. road, as briefly reported in yesterday's JOURNAL. The circumstances are briefly as follows:

When No. 9, freight train, in charge of Walter Case, was ready to leave Golconda five tramps had boarded the several cars. Joe Knowles commanded them to get off, when all at once two pistols in the hands of as many tramps were pointed at his face. The would-be assassin, who shot and wounded Knowles in one of the legs, snatched the pistol from his brother tramp. Nothing daunted, Knowles stood his ground, made a spring for his assailant and succeeded in grabbing one of the revolvers, when he was immediately fired at and fell to the ground. Singularly the pistol in the hands of the unfortunate brakeman was unloaded.

In a jiffy the whole horde of the pest were on a bee line for the hills through the sagebrush, pursued by the excited Golcondans. The latter managed to bag three of the game, two escaping. At the time of the shooting it so happened that No. 3, east-bound, had arrived at Winnemucca. A telegram from Golconda caused Sheriff Hadley of Humboldt to immediately board the train, together with Geo. S. Nixon, Engineer Greer, Jas. Cahalan and others. At Golconda they found the prisoners in custody of a shotgun and revolver brigade in Dutertre's hotel.

Returning to Winnemucca three of the hobos were locked up for examination before Justice Reagan. Two others picked up at Golconda were retained on parole as witnesses.

Dr. Hansen is attending the wounded man at Thos. Shone's hotel. Knowles is resting easy, although the ball is still in his leg.

All the railroad boys "off duty" manifest a deep concern in the welfare of their comrade by ministering to his wants to the best of their ability.

Knowles will leave on train No. 2 for the Sacramento railroad hospital to have the ball extracted.

OSCAR HIDEBRANDT.

THE CARSON MINT.

The New Appointments—Silver Bullion Coming In.

CARSON CITY, Nev., May 29, 1896. In view of the full resumption of operations in the Melting and Refining Department of the Carson Mint next Monday, after a rest of a year and a half, the following appointments were made this afternoon:

F. D. Hetrick, Assistant Melter and Refiner

George W. Lukens, Foreman of the Refinery.

Judge T. F. Healey, bookkeeper.

D. C. Robb, silver dissolver.

George McLaughlin, engineer.

Alex Dromasak, fireman.

Ted Dolan, helper.

Hetrick, Lukens and McLaughlin are and have been Republicans, but it should be understood that these selections have been made by the mint management with a view solely to genuine experience, ability and honest effectiveness regardless of political proclivities. All of which is correct and good.

Silver bullion is already being purchased at the mint and will flow in once more in a steady stream instead of going to San Francisco. And perhaps this auspicious and helpful resumption of mint business may prove to be a stepping stone toward the resumption of coinage and the establishment of a better character for the Carson Mint.

SCHOOL EXERCISES.

A Proper Observance of Memorial Day and the Old Soldiers Entertained.

The exercises in the various rooms of the High School yesterday were highly commended by all who had the pleasure of being present. The heavy storm prevented a large attendance and a few of the pupils who were to take part were absent, but the programs generally were carried out.

In Miss Lincoln's and Miss Loder's rooms the decorations were an attractive feature.

General G. M. Mitchell Post, G. A. R., and the Women's Relief Corps were present in goodly numbers and were highly pleased with the little folks.

Mr. S. A. Hamlin for the Post and Mrs. Chambers for the Relief Corps made short and pleasing addresses. Pat Keating, the old veteran, was called upon and in his characteristic way talked to the children and visitors and put all in good humor.

The exercises and events of the day served to imbue the young people with a love of country and patriotism and gave them a lesson that their young minds will never forget.

He Knew His Rights.

A little bowlegged Jap about 4 feet high made the conductor on a Market street car feel very uncomfortable yesterday. The Jap got on the car at Powell street, and in payment of his fare gave the conductor a transfer. He glanced at it and observed that it had been punched an hour before.

"Fare, please!" he growled as he held out the transfer.

"I have gave you one transfer," said the Jap very calmly and deliberately as he stared ahead like a wooden Indian.

"That was punched an hour ago,"

"I cannot help if the conductor punch a wrong hole," declared the Jap.

"But it is not good. I want your fare."

"If it is not good, why he gave it me?"

"Will you pay your fare?"

"No."

"Then you will have to get off."

"I neither pay any more nor get off," declared the Jap deliberately, and his face never moved a muscle.

"Then I will have to throw you off."

And the conductor threw the car.

"You are afraid to put me off, if you even could. The law says you must take transfer, and your employer says you must take it, too, if you cannot make a man pay again. You cannot make me pay again."

The conductor gave the bellcord a pull, and the little Jap continued to stare out the window opposite—San Francisco Post.

Was Grateful to the Preacher.

"The man who said, 'Tis the unexpected that always happens,' was a preacher, I'll guarantee," said a clerical member of the Lunch club. "At my time of life I ought not to be stunned by anything, but after service a good woman of my flock did manage to take my breath away. I was preaching about the Father's tender wisdom in caring for us all," he said. "I illustrated by saying that the Father knows which of us grows best in sunlight and which of us must have shade. 'You know you plant roses in the sunshine,' I said, 'and heliotrope and geraniums, but if you want your fuchsias to grow you must keep them in a shady nook.' After the sermon, which I hoped would be a comforting one, a woman came up to me, her face glowing with a pleasure that was evidently deep and true. 'Oh, Dr. —, I am so grateful for that sermon,' she said, clasping my hand and shaking it warmly. My heart glowed for a moment, while I wondered what tender place in her heart and life I had touched. Only for a moment, though. 'Yes,' she went on fervently, 'I never knew before what was the matter with my fuchsias.'"—Chicago Interior.

Perdian Passants.

There is probably no peasantry in the world so ground down as the Perdian.
The ancestral laborer there, as in China, ever tries to mollify his conqueror, the simple reason that if he does not, more is taken away from him by the rulers of the land. The general condition of the laboring classes, however, does not seem to be so bad as might be supposed. In a country so vast (350,000 square miles) and so thinly populated (3,500,000 in all), a small and efficient supply of food is easily raised, especially with such prolific soil at the command of the peasant. At Shiraz there are two harvests in the year—the soft, soft in summer and heavy in autumn, consists of rice, corn, Indian corn and garden produce, and the wheat is sown in October and November, and reaped from May till July. This is exclusively wheat and barley. Here also grow grapes, oranges and pomegranates, for which latter Shiraz is famed.—Oating.

Hard Work.

White—What is the matter with Greene? I saw him just now, and he looks pretty bad.

Gray—Yes, poor fellow, he is suffering from overwork.

White—I wasn't aware that he ever did any work.

Gray—That's where you make a mistake. He was on the train the other day, and he tried to open three different car windows for as many different ladies.—Boston Transcript.

A WAR REMINISCENCE.

Scenes at Hatcher's Creek and Petersburg Recalled.

John B. Scace Speaks to a Reporter of Stirring Scenes—Escaped with a Slight Wound, but, Like Other Veterans, Has Suffered Since—A Story that Reads Like a Page from History.

From the Albany, N. Y., Journal.

When one encounters in print the life story of some soldier of the civil war a feeling of admiration and sympathy is the certain result. Accustomed though we are to tales of heroism and suffering in everyday life, there is something peculiarly attractive about these old war records, serving, as they do, as a sacred passport to the heart of every true American. Thousands found their rest on the field of carnage or in the hospital, but their courage, when the struggle was over and the victory won, returned to their homes and began anew the battle of life.

John B. Scace, the widely known contractor and building mover of Albany, N. Y., has had an unusually interesting life, and when seen by a reporter recently at his home at 100 Broadway, told of his many experiences and adventures while serving under the old flag in the late war. Although having endured all the hardships and privations of life in the ranks, Mr. Scace bears his more than half-century of years with an elastic step and a keen mind, taking an active interest in private and public affairs.

While still a boy, his family moved from Albany, his birthplace, to Pittsfield, Mass., and here he was educated. He mastered the carpenter's trade, became a member of Berkshire Lodge, No. 52, I. O. O. F., and was entering upon a successful business life when the call from Washington for volunteers over the country, the word spread, and excitement ran high. All the old-time patriots that had made Massachusetts famous in Revolutionary days were drafted to its utmost. Every town and village sent out its squad or company, and the ranks of the Union army were swelled by the brave sons of the North.

The company in which Mr. Scace enlisted in September of 1862, as a private, became Company A, Second Regiment, Massachusetts Volunteer Infantry. Under the command of Captain Scace, the men were enlisted for three years, but were discharged after only a few months, having been reformed and armed before they were ordered to the front. The regiment, which at the time was under the command of Col. W. F. Barlett, served in the First Brigade, First Division, Nineteenth Corps, and participated in some of the hottest battles of the great rebellion.

Mr. Scace, at the time, was but twenty-two years of age, and he remembers well what a beating heart he first felt in line. His regiment was ordered South, directly through the enemy's country, with Baton Rouge as the objective point. After several months of wary marches, during which Company A passed through several very arduous marches, the enemy's country was reached, and the company was ordered to bivouac in the woods and rear, the capital city of Louisiana was reached. An evacuation followed. Citizens
